

Now

With F.M.L.

I think it was Talleyrand, the 19th century French statesman, who said one time to an adversary: "I wish I were as sure of anything as you are of everything."

NOW-NOW-NOW

Talleyrand might well say that today. And laugh, comparing the post-Napoleonic period with our post-Vietnam experience, still aborning.

Americans at home or abroad aren't sure of anything anymore. We are withdrawn from the Vietnam sector and hurled into a sometime witless trade world and expanding universe.

If ever there was much to grab in way of problems, we are richly endowed.

We can be sure of things one at a time. That's the way we live, one day at a time. Plans and projections are worthless without the days and years to live them and someone to count them by.

Another Frenchman might help. A guy by the name of Descartes said: "I think, therefore I am." He is his own witness on being alive because he understood his own awareness.

We build on that through the eons and centuries, beyond the Napoleonic Wars and Vietnam, beyond periodic certainties, beyond periodic uncertainties.

We find singular inspiration in the fact that, man, superman or idiot, "I'm alive."

Talleyrand and his political adversary would agree on that. The next thing beyond survival is a reason why. And every time the alternatives there are considered, even these days, the uncertainties fade, one by one, as they are looked upon, one by one.

Even as Talleyrand, the wise, sophisticated diplomat must have done for France.

Bogus Linemen Swindle Woman

ROSEBUD

The Rosebud Police Department issued a warning to Rosebud residents to be on the lookout for swindlers posing as linemen for the electric company. A Marlin woman was swindled out of $40 by two men who went to her home pretending to read the electric meter. They told her she had a short and offered to repair it for $55. When she told them she had only $40, the accepted that amount as a deposit. Telling her they were returning to town for supplies, they took the money and never returned.

South Milam UF Sets Goal

ROCKDALE

A goal of $20,375, to be distributed to 11 agencies including one new one, has been set for the South Milam County United Fund campaign which is scheduled to be kicked off on October 1, according to an announcement by Bill Vogelpohl, UF president. The new agency added is Texas Council on Alcoholism, which has been budgeted $250 by the local UF. The other ten agencies are the same ones served in 1972.

New Hospital On Drawing Board

GEORGETOWN

A new hospital for Georgetown is on the drawing board with the Georgetown Medical Association hoping to have the plans in 60 days for the new two story structure. A site will be chosen after money is obtained through hospital bonds, probably on property the Association owns on the east side of I-35 just north of the Leander road. Space, the lack of it, is the biggest apparent problem for expanding the present hospital — space for building and space for parking.

City To Appeal Annexation

MCGREGOR

McGregor's annexation of the McGregor airport property, already upheld by a unanimous decision of a jury, was also supported by Judge Derwood Johnson of 74th District Court who signed a judgment putting the decision on record. An attorney for the city of Waco, which brought the lawsuit challenging McGregor's right to annex the property, said Waco will "most definitely" appeal the district court decision.

Lake Visitors Show Increase

SOMERVILLE

Visitors for last week at Somerville Lake totaled 44,295, according to a lake report. Total visitors for the year is 2,449,949. Reports for the Labor Day weekend show one of the busiest weekends for the year, with every available space taken with many tents and campers under the shade trees. However, the holiday mood was darkened by another drowning, that of Ernest Nichols of Bryan. His body had not been recovered by Tuesday morning.

Volunteer Service Developing

BELTON

The Belton Volunteer Ambulance Service is developing "exactly as smooth" as it was anticipated, and we have no words of praise high enough for our volunteer ambulance corps," said City Manager George Ferrell. There are 33 members now in the Volunteer Ambulance Service. The new service was instigated after the funeral home at Belton donated its ambulances to the city and stated that it could no longer provide ambulance service.

US Taking Precautions Against Terrorists

By William Scally

WASHINGTON

Reuter - The United States is taking a series of stringent precautions to prevent a new outbreak of international terrorism in the country.

This follows the explosion of a letter bomb at the British Embassy when a secretary lost a hand. The bomb was mailed from London, apparently by members of the Irish Republican Army.

Earlier this year Israeli air attack Yosef Alon was gunned down outside his home.

The FBI is still investigating the murder and has refused to label it a political assassination. But Israeli officials here say there is little doubt that Arab terrorists were responsible.

U. S. officials believe these violent acts could mean that international terrorism is being exported to the United States.

A series of precautions has been outlined by the state departments anti-terrorism co-ordinator, Lewis Hoffacker.

The immigration service is making it tougher for suspected terrorists to get into the country. Visa applicants from countries where potential terrorists might lurk are given a deep screening.

In such screenings, 37,000 visa applications were examined for possible terrorist connections. Twelve people were refused entry.

The U.S. Post Office is taking sophisticated precautions to intercept letter bombs. Seven terrorist letter bombs were seized up to last March. One exploded, injuring a postal clerk.

At the nation's airports special watch is being kept for possible plane hijackers. Metal detectors are discovering hundreds of weapons.

Anti-hijacking measures have been credited with a dramatic reduction in aerial piracy. Hoffacker said that up to August 1 this year there had been no U.S. hijackings and six foreign aircraft seizures compared with 16 U.S. hijackings and 18 foreign incidents last year.

The United States recently concluded an agreement with Cuba for extradition or prosecution of hijackers and is seeking other international treaties to make it harder for an aerial pirate to avoid punishment.

But many people regard the U.S. hijacking problem as separate from the emergence of organized international terrorism. Most American hijackers have acted alone or in groups of only three or four. Many have been mentally disturbed or criminals on the run.

The new breed of terrorist is more organized and more dangerous. It was this kind of terrorist who kidnapped and murdered Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympic games last year -- an action that led to the setting up a special U.S. cabinet group on terrorism.

"We see collaboration among terrorist groups of different nationalities, which seems to be increasing," Hoffacker said. "Such groups seem to be moving into new areas, including this country."

"There is evidence of new and sizeable financial resources behind some terrorist groups, obtained not only from ransoms collected but also from Governments which are sympathetic to political aspirations of certain terrorist groups."

"We are more effective than a year ago," he said, adding, "Terrorists are also learning."

Yoemen Shower Ducks 26-6

Most people believe that ducks are fair swimmers. However, the Taylor Ducks found the water too deep to swim in as the Cameron Yoemen showered the Ducks 26-6 in the season opener at Duck Stadium.

The Yoemen never sustained a long drive, but scored on several important big plays. Wasting no time, the first big play came shortly after Taylor's first possession of the ball.

Taylor quarterback Randy Randig attempted to pass into the flats, but Yoe linebacker Ronnie Bennett intercepted the ball and ran 40 yards for a touchdown. With 10:42 left in the first quarter, the Yoemen led 6-0.

Later in the first quarter the Yoemen were trying to establish a drive, but were stopped when Randy Randig intercepted a Smitherman pass on the Duck 28-yard line.

Cameron scored next in the second quarter on an 80-yard touchdown run by George Whiteside.

Before the half was over, Cameron quarterback Jeff Smitherman hit split end Gary Hornung. Hornung carried the ball over for six points. The score climbed to 20-0 after the 2-point conversion.

Finally Taylor had their big play, when Randig threw to Mitchell Gibson for a 50-yard touchdown.

Only one touchdown was scored during the second half. It came on a 55-yard touchdown run by Cameron's Willie Bell.

During the game, Bell picked up 67 yards on 5 carries. Whiteside had 137 yards on 19 carries to lead the rushing department.

However, Whiteside and Bell will have to tip their hats to the Yoe offense line for their fine blocking. The Yoe offensive line consist of Mike Mueck, Jim Delony, Ricky Williams, Ricky Sapp, Joe Smitherman, and Ronnie Benett.

Burlington Man Injured In Traffic Mishap

DPS Patrolman Larry Hester of Rockdale investigated a two-vehicle accident at 7:30 p.m. Thursday which resulted in the injury of a passenger and heavy damage to both vehicles.

Injured was Walter Marek Jr., Burlington postmaster, who was a passenger in a car driven by Leonard Pelzel of Burlington. Marek was taken to St. Edward Hospital where his condition was described as satisfactory.

The other vehicle in the accident was a pickup driven by Joe Rozner Jr. of Cameron. The accident occurred on the old Temple highway near the Highway 36 cutoff.

Hester said both vehicles were traveling west at the time of the accident. After impact Rozner's pickup ended up on its side in a ditch. Both vehicles were heavily damaged.

Cameron PTA will hold its first meeting of the year at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Yoe Field. There will be a band concert and faculty and school board members will be introduced. All parents and school friends are urged to attend.

Price Control Stickers Going On Gas Pumps

Price control stickers for gasoline pumps are now available at U.S. Post Offices, says Richard J. Stakem, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue for southern Texas.

The stickers must be used by gasoline and diesel fuel retailers to comply with Cost of Living Council requirements that they post on each pump the Phase IV ceiling price and minimum octane rating, Stakem said.

September 7 is the new deadline established by the Cost of Living Council for station owners and operators to comply with the posting requirements.

Gasoline and diesel fuel retailers must obtain one instruction sheet per station and one sticker for each pump. If more than one grade of gas is sold from a pump, a separate sticker must be posted for each grade. Post offices will hand out stickers together with instructions.

Bulk quantities of the stickers will not be distributed to trade associations, Stakem said.

On the reverse of the instruction sheet is a form on which the ceiling price, octane number, grade of gas, pump serial number and sticker number must be listed. The completed sheet should be retained at each station for IRS inspection. Forms do not have to be notarized.

Stakem also said that, in general, gasoline ceiling prices are based on the greater of the dealer's actual markup on January 10, 1973, or seven cents per gallon. This figure is added to the price the dealer paid for his gas on August 1, 1973, to arrive at the ceiling price.

Are We In Search?

"Man for All Seasons" was showing twice last week on one of the TV networks, a portrayal of Sir Thomas More's stand on conscience which cost him his head.

More was lord chancellor of England in the 1530's when the king wanted to divorce his present wife, break with Roman pontifical law and remarry under new laws establishing a Church of England loyal to the king.

A humanist, scholar and lawyer, More first lost his chancellorship by refusing to take an oath approving the new order of things. Repeatedly charged to do so, condemned by false witness in a final trial for treason, More went to the Tower of London.

For reasons of conscience, he died under the ax-man's blade. Richard Rich, the perjurer against him, died in his own bed.

More had been encouraged by Rome through the years to develop arguments against Luther's Reformation in Germany. And he had worked with Erasmus, one of the giants of humanist scholarship, in the Netherlands.

Repeatedly reminded by nobility "that this is England, not Spain," More nonetheless followed his loyalties to a martyred chopping block. He was beatified by the Roman Church in 1935.

One may disagree with reason, but one cannot question motive in a man like Sir Thomas. He believed in something beside himself and that how he believed was his business and that no other loyalty could intervene.

Timing of such a double screening on one of the major U.S. networks is most interesting.

Are we in search of such a man?

A Quart A Day....

A news item the other day noted that the body daily produces about a quart of alcohol equivalent to 3.2 beer, which before the 18-year-old laws in some states, was all college students could drink in public.

That puts the "dry" in tough condition to argue for total abstinence when his own body is in complicity against him.

The quart or so of the low-grade schnappes, though, undoubtedly serves some physical, natural purpose or the body would not produce it. Which is another case to question total abstinence, except when one might say "nature is already taking care of my alcohol needs, so who needs it."

Which is moot because the brain is the ultimate of organic activity and that is what creates the crises which for some people requires the balm of additional alcohol.

Which boils to the point that if you're going to drink the stuff, you don't start any drunker than a "dry" because you both have a quart a day anyway. Any more than that is social more than a religious question.

Rich Shoplifters Plague London In Tourist Season

By Peter Griffiths

LONDON
Reuters - Foreign shoplifters have led storeworkers in London's fashionable West End to rename the tourist season - they are calling it the thieving season.

Security chiefs say shoplifters who prey on central London stores are almost all foreigners and almost all well-off.

The head of security at Selfridge's - one of London's biggest and best-known department stores - says: "The percentage of foreign nationals among people caught shoplifting is a staggering 93 percent."

Stealing by light-fingered visitors, many from Iran and the Middle East, has soared to such levels that a London magistrate this week carried out a threat to jail well-heeled foreign shoplifters.

The Lebanese wife of a wealthy banker was sent to prison for 30 days for stealing goods worth five dollars. The court was told she had $425 cash on her at the time.

Five other wealthy women - two Syrians, two Iranians and a Japanese - were also slapped with similar jail terms by magistrates on Friday. An Italian Roman Catholic priest got off more lightly, he was fined $12.50 for stealing a book.

It is estimated that goods worth nearly five million dollars are stolen daily by industrial pilferers and shoplifters in Britain. And of the shops that get hit, London's chic fashion stores suffer more than most - especially in the summer season.

The owner of one trendy Chelsea boutique said: "Sometimes I just cannot believe how they have the nerve. Last week I caught a French girl walking out of the changing room with two of my dresses under her own."

"I lose hundreds of pounds worth of clothes each week," he added.

One of the paradoxes in the shoplifting craze is that so many light-fingered women - especially the foreign tourists - are well off and some of them are, by any standards, rich.

Dr. M.M. Glatt, a leading psychiatrist, has made a study of shoplifting. He tried to explain why rich foreign women succumb so often to the temptation of stealing in London stores.

"Well - off middle - aged women often shoplift because they are starved of love and affection," he said.

"One could speculate that foreign women come here and steal because they are bored on holiday and don't know what to do with themselves. They do not have their husbands with them, perhaps feel frustrated, and go shoplifting for kicks.

By Ronald Batchelor

LONDON
Reuters - Two bald-headed businessmen stand in front of a world map pockmarked with company pins and one of them nonchalantly remarks to the other "Let's take over the 25 biggest countries in the world."

That was a recent cartoon in a London evening newspaper. It might have been used with even greater force to depict the theme of a book published today that turns a harsh searchlight on an octopus-company that spans the globe gobbling up businesses almost faster than it can digest them.

"The Sovereign State," by British journalist - author Anthony Sampson, the man who cast new light on Britain's power structure in his best-selling "The New Anatomy of Britain," has turned his probing beam on to the biggest and most controversial multi-national conglomerate of them all - the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation (ITT).

ITT - eighth biggest company in the United States, biggest in Europe, eleventh biggest in the western world with its control of more than 1,000 other concerns - has been swept into headline news during the last three years and Sampson uncovers the threads of its involvements in a succession of scandals in the United States that have been dwarfed only by Watergate.

To the average man or woman the initials ITT meant little or nothing until those scandals began bursting. Their effects are likely to continue rippling in world capitals for the rest of this decade.

There was ITT and its secret offer to put up $400,000 in cash or services, or a mixture of both, to help the Republicans stage their 1972 presidential convention in San Diego where President Nixon was reported anxious to go for his party's renomination.

There was ITT's bitter fight against U.S. anti-trust laws before, during and after the biggest merger in American history - the 1.5 billion dollar takeover of the fifth biggest property-and-liability insurance company in America, Hartford Fire.

And, most explosive of all, there was ITT's attempt - as revealed by once-secret memoranda quoted by Sampson - to subvert the installation of Marxist President Salvador Allende of Chile where ITT employed 6,000 workers and where its assets were valued at $150 million.

Sampson dissects ITT, charging that it is a business monster without morals or scruples, contemptuous of governments, its only god the profit motive.

Sampson declared: "ITT still regards itself as above governments, above controls and above morals. It presents itself still as an American company in America, British in Britain, German in Germany; but it owes loyalty to none of them, and regards each government as an unnecessary obstruction."

From dog food to transistors, from face cream to telephones is ITT's grip throughout its global empire.

In the United States ITT is spread through insurance, hotels, baking, cellulose, timber, electrical products, publishing, service industries and, until forced to divest itself by anti-trust pressures, was the owner of Avis Rent-A-Car, a house-building company, fire extinguisher manufacturers and a mammoth food systems corporation.

In Europe ITT interests include hotels, insurance, teleprinters, cosmetics, automation parts, lamps, pumps and food. Additionally, it controls telecommunications companies in Germany (Standard Elektrik Lorenz), Britain (Standard Telephones and Cables, France (CGCT and LMT), Italy (FACE), Spain (Standard Electrica Cite and Marconi), Sweden (Standard Radio), Belgium (Bell Telephone) and Norway (Standard Telefon).

It was founded in 1920 and became one of the first multinational corporations in the modern sense, Sampson points out.

The founder of ITT was Sosthenes Behn, who was born in the Virgin Islands in the Caribbean when they were owned by Denmark which sold them to the United States for 30 million dollars in 1917.

Behn, who died in 1957 and became known as "the prince of telephones," was a close sympathizer and cooperator with Hitler and the Nazis both before and during World War II, according to Sampson, who gained access to secret documents.

Declares Sampson: "Behn's eagerness to keep in with each regime (where ITT operated) served to exacerbate, rather than moderate, the conflict for he was prepared to do almost anything to avoid his companies being expropriated. He helped build up the Nazi war machine, extending from communications into armaments and he allowed the neutral (European) companies to become interlocked with the Nazi system."

LAWYER

Truth In Insurance

Filling out an application for life insurance, Edwards came to a question about his health. He said he had a clear record, failing to mention that a doctor had once given him aspirin for a cold.

After Edwards died, his family put in a claim for the insurance. But the company refused to pay off, charging that he had not told the whole truth in his application. And in a court test, the judge agreed with the company that the policy was null and void. The family didn't collect a cent.

Plainly, that was a harsh decision. But it was handed down almost a century ago. It is hard to imagine a court today throwing out a family's life insurance on such flimsy grounds. While you are still expected to tell the truth in an insurance application, modern courts would judge your answers more reasonably.

In a recent case, an applicant for life insurance was asked whether he used liquor to the point of intoxication. The man said he did not. Actually, however, he had been somewhat intoxicated on two occasions during the previous five years.

Was his answer wrong enough to invalidate the policy? No, ruled a court, ordering the company to pay the family's claim.

"An occasional use of intoxicating liquor," said the court, "does not (make) a man in-temperate."

Moreover, most life insurance policies now include an "incontestability clause" to further protect the beneficiaries. Under this clause, the insurance company has only a limited period - usually, two years - to quarrel with answers in the application. After that time the validity of the policy is beyond challenge.

Still, even the incontestability clause won't help if the fraud is extreme.

Jehovah's Witnesses To Attend Training Program In Killeen

The Cameron congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses is making preliminary plans to attend a two-day training program in Killeen, it was announced last night.

C. D. Herbellin, presiding overseer of the group, in discussing this announcement to the congregation pointed to the challenge to Christian thinking and Christian works evident in the world today.

The purpose of the assembly "is to equip every one of the preaching fellowship of Jehovah's Witnesses in the practical use of the Bible as a help in fortifying the spiritual morale of people in our community."

The announcement came as a climax to the weekly ministry-development program held at the local Kingdom Hall. Herbellin said that Jehovah's Witnesses are enrolled in ministerial training of at least five classes weekly. "We maintain," he emphasized, "that if a religion is worth believing it is worth putting into practice."

For that reason, the Watch Tower Society sponsors the two-day gathering in Killeen which will stress the theme, "Keep Close in Mind Jehovah's Day!" he said.

Youths Aid Conservation Efforts in 4-H Program

These 4-H'ers are helping to clear litter from a stream as part of their activities in the 4-H conservation of natural resources program, sponsored by John Deere. Other youths in the program work in wildlife conservation, cleaning roadsides, restocking forests and streams, beautifying urban areas, and other environmental efforts geared for urban and rural communities.

SPECIAL—Numbered among the strongest proponents of environmental quality are the youth of America. And adding their action-oriented leadership through a conservation of natural resources program are nearly 400,000 directly involved 4-H members, notes the National 4-H Service Committee.

With incentives and recognition sponsored by John Deere, the 4-H conservationists participate in activities geared towards improvement of the environment at home and in the community, be it rural or urban.

Working individually and in groups, the 4-H'ers clear waterways, roadsides and parkland of litter and debris and help in wildlife conservation and protection. They participate in reforestation projects, in community and rural development planning and aid in action programs.

Youths in the Cooperative Extension Service supervised program gain increased appreciation of the nation's natural resources. And they are prodded to seek ways to use such resources wisely, the basis of good conservation practices. Some of the young people find their career choice through their work in the 4-H conservation of natural resources program.

Raising 30 different species of wild waterfowl in her community was just part of the conservation activities of one 1972 national winner in the program. Molly Moore, of Lake Charles, La., raised over 200 birds and identified 200 more species that visited her parents land. She's also been active in tree seeding projects, and the 4-H'er helped to clear harmful plant life from a nearby artificial lake.

A recipient of a $700 scholarship as a 4-H winner, Miss Moore has also worked to help curb air and water pollution in her community, in her role as a conservation writer for a local newspaper.

While enjoying success working alone, 4-H'ers have found their clubs and groups an even better way to multiply their conservation efforts.

A group in San Diego County, Calif., helped the U.S. Forest Service replant large areas of Cleveland National Forest that were destroyed by fire. They also built bird houses to encourage the nesting of useful birds in the forest preserve.

John Deere's schedule of incentives includes up to four medals of honor in each county, and an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Nov. 25-29, for one winner from each state.

During the national 4-H event, six national winners are to be announced, each receiving a $700 scholarship from the donor.

Club and group recognition included county and state certificates and a $50 cash award to one county in each state reporting the most outstanding 4-H conservation program.

For more information on individual and group activities in 4-H conservation of natural resources program, contact the county extension office.

Maid Of Cotton Contest Opens

MEMPHIS

Opening of the 36th annual Maid of Cotton selection was announced here today by the National Cotton Council.

Entries in the selection will be accepted until midnight, Dec. 1, the Council said.

Girls who were born in a cotton-producing state or who have maintained continuous residence in the Cotton Belt since the age of seven or earlier are eligible to enter. They also must be between 19 and 23 years old, at least five feet five inches tall, and have never been married.

Twenty finalists will participate in the selection held Dec. 27-28. Sixteen of these will be chosen on the basis of applications and photographs submitted to the Council, and the other four will be automatic finalists who have won state or regional selections in Alabama, Arizona, New Mexico or the South Plains of Texas.

The 1974 Maid, who will succeed Debra Ploch of Dallas, will represent the American cotton industry as its official goodwill ambassador both in this country and overseas. Her domestic tour will include a visit to Washington and other cities where she will participate in activities designed to increase public understanding of the cotton industry's contributions to the nation. Tentative plans also call for fashion shows and public appearances in Japan, Korea, Thailand, Hong Kong, and Taiwan during her travels overseas.

Shortly after her selection, the new Maid will make her first official appearance at the Cotton Bowl Festival in Dallas on New Year's Day. Six months later, after completing her international tour, she will return here to receive a new automobile as a gift from dealers in the five-state Memphis Ford District.

Application forms for entering the 1974 selection may be obtained by writing the Council at 1918 N. Parkway, Memphis, Tenn. 38112.

Check List Against Lint From Laundering

Lint is a natural by-product of all laundering, but whether or not it clings to clothes may depend on the homemaker.

Normally, lint flows down the drain or collects on lint filters built into most of today's washers and dryers. When it persistently clings to freshly laundered clothes, the homemaker should recheck laundering procedures.

Five major factors cause clinging lint -- improper sorting of laundry, too little detergent, insufficient water, overloading washer and dryer, and overdrying. Concentrate on these areas to overcome lint problems.

--Check lint filters. For peak efficiency, clean filters after each wash and dry load.

--Examine sorting procedures. Separate lint "givers" -- towels and flannel pajamas -- lint "attractors" such as linens, corduroys, dark cottons, man-made fabrics and durable press garments. Also, launder heavy linters, such as chenille bedspreads, alone. Turning lint holders inside out may help too.

--Use proper amount of detergent. Detergents increase the wetting of fabric surfaces. If too little is used, wetting action is reduced and lint adheres more readily. Proportion detergent to type of machine, water hardness, load size and degree of soil.

--Don't overload. Loading too many clothes into a washer inhibits free movement of clothes -- which normally flushes lint from fabric. Check instruction booklet to determine recommended load size and water level.

--Avoid overdrying. When overdried, man-made fabrics magnetically draw lint due to static buildup. Correct timing and use of fabric softener help eliminate this problem. In addition, certain durable press and synthetic fibers -- such as polyesters and acrylics -- tend to "pill". Pilling -- formation of small balls on fabric surfaces -- stems from abrasion in normal wear. Lint adheres to pilled surfaces and is extremely difficult to remove. To remove lint, brush fabric carefully with a stiff bristled brush for best results.

Omelets are great anytime--for breakfast, brunch, luncheon, dinner or even snacking. There are simple omelets and spicy ones, some with a filling inside and some with a savory topping.

The combination of eggs and cheese are basic to flavorful omelets with other additions from a to z offering endless variations. Zucchini, for example, in combination with onion and crumbled crisp bacon turns an omelet into a substantial main dish, suited to luncheon or dinner service. Once you've developed your omelet technique, you'll come up with a host of exciting combinations.

Note, too, that eggs, traditionally in plentiful supply at this time of year, plus cheese, for flavor and extra nutrition, offer good eating at a price that's easy on the food budget.

Zucchini Luncheon Omelet

3 bacon slices 1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup zucchini slices Dash of pepper
1 small onion, sliced 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded
2 tablespoons Parkay Cracker Barrel Brand
Margarine Sharp Natural Cheddar
6 eggs, beaten Cheese
1/2 cup milk

Fry bacon until crisp; remove from skillet. Drain fat, reserving 1 tablespoon. Saute zucchini and onion in bacon fat. Melt margarine in 10-inch skillet over low heat. Combine eggs, milk and seasonings; pour into skillet. Cook slowly. As egg mixture sets, lift slightly with a spatula to allow uncooked portion to flow underneath. Cover omelet with 1/2 cup cheese, zucchini, onion and crumbled bacon. Fold in half and sprinkle with remaining cheese.

Makes 3 to 4 servings.

Poison ivy will get you if you don't watch out.

What most people don't realize is that its poison is potent the year 'round—even after the plant is dead.

Furthermore its poison can be transferred from one person to another by clothing or shoes—even by animals that brush up against you or that you pet after they have run through a bed of ivy.

It's not uncommon for campers who pick up firewood to be poisoned—or even from the smoke of burning poison ivy buds. In this instance the buds emit droplets of poison ivy oil that are carried away in the smoke and settle on clothing, then seep through to the skin.

You can lessen the damage of ivy poisoning by a thorough washing of hands and arms as quickly as possible after contact—and by a good scrubbing of all wearing apparel at the very first opportunity.

There are numerous "relief" medicines on the market.

But the best "cure" we have found is to rub the skin gently (don't ever scratch) or dab it lightly with cotton soaked in a mixture of 12 aspirin tablets and some camphor gum dissolved in a pint of rubbing alcohol. Apply it often.

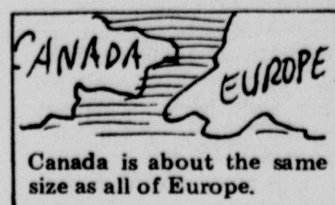

Some say that after a bad case of poison-ivy-itch you're immune to the infection for a year or two. But, it could be that you're just a darn sight more careful and give the itchy vine a wide berth for a long time thereafter.

8th Grade Loses By Safety, 2-0

The 8th grade Taylor Ducks edged the 8th grade Cameron Yoe-Yoes 2-0 Thursday night at Yoe Stadium.

Both defenses proved to be tough throughout the entire game.

The Yoe-Yoes defense was alert, recovering two Taylor fumbles. The first by Mike Knight on the 50 ended Taylors first drive. The second recovery by Stanley Sheigut on the Yoe 20 ended another Taylor scoring threat.

There was no score during the first half of play, but Taylor managed to receive two points during the third quarter.

Taylor's score was set up by a fumble recovery on the Yoe 22. Taylor then drove down to the 2, but was met there by a tough Yoe defense. The Ducks were forced to turn the ball over to the Yoe-Yoes. On the first play Cameron was dropped in the end zone for a safety.

Both teams continued to fight for yardage but neither team was able to score again. The final score was 2-0 in favor of the Ducks.

Cameron JV's Clip Ducklings,

The Taylor Ducks rode in to Cameron flying high, but after suffering a 7-0 defeat at the hands of the Yoe J.V. they rode out flying a littler lower.

Cameron started the action early by driving deep in to Taylor territory, only to fumble on the 24. However, the Yoe defense forced the Ducks to punt the ball away a few plays later. Robert Miller returned the Taylor punt to the Yoe 46 and it was here that the Yoe offense, guided by quarterback Randy Sapp, put it all together and started its drive touchdown. Sapp's pass to Miller was complete at the 38. The next play Sapp threw to Joey Mondrik, which brought the Yoe men to the Duck 21. Frank Tina carried down to the 9 and Robert Miller scored on the following play.

Allen Jones kicked the extra point. And with 2:52 left in the 1st quarter Cameron leads 7-0.

Neither team was able to score after the 1st quarter. However, Taylor drove down to the Yoe 16 in the 2nd quarter, but were stopped when Jeff Simmons intercepted a pass on the Cameron 8 yard line.

Taylor's last chance to score came late in the 4th quarter when Cameron had to punt the ball away. Time ran out and the score remained, 7-0 in favor of Cameron.

Duck 7th Opens With Yoe Win

Thursday night might have been just an ordinary Thursday night for most people, but it wasn't for the Cameron and Taylor 7th grade football players. It was special to them because Thursday night was their first time to play in a school football game.

The Taylor players began their careers with victory, as they defeated the Yoe-Yoes, 6-0 in a hard fought game at Yoe Stadium.

Taylor entered Yoe territory early in the first quarter, but the drive was stopped when Cameron recovered ed a Taylor fumble on the Yoe 32. Unable to sustain a drive, Cameron gave the ball back on the Yoe 45. Taylor was again haunted by a fumble and Cameron took over on their own 28-yard line.

Neither team was able to score during the first half, but Taylor lit up the scoreboard late in the third quarter. Scoring for Taylor was Gerald Davidson on a 14 yard scamper.

However, the Yoe-Yoes were unable to cross the goal, thus suffering a 6-0 loss.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

EARLY WARNING OF STORM

Anytime you go boating, even for a short period of time, take along a small radio. Pocket-size will do.

Follow this habit, despite the fact that you will boat in an area with which you are thoroughly familiar, and you plan a strictly, pleasure-boat ride.

Make it a must to take along a radio anytime you dedicate a day to fishing—and definitely if you're planning to be out all night.

Why drag along a radio when you're going outdoors primarily to get away from things?

Well, one reason is that the radio could be worth its weight in gold, to you. A radio is fine for entertainment—but its wonderful as a weather indicator.

A weather indicator? No station broadcasts weather warning all day long!

Maybe not, but the static you complain about, is in many cases advance warning of an approaching storm. There are other reasons for static too, but those loud flashing, sputtering, heavy blasts of ear-splitting static reflect lightening in the area.

Static Is Your Cue

Not all static is indicative of a storm. Some comes from nearby electric transmission lines or faulty or ungrounded electrical equipment in operation. But sudden bursts of static are warning signs. A radio reacts to lightening long before you can see flashes.

To you who are afloat loud static is a warning to "look for storm clouds". As the static gets louder and more frequent it's admonishing you to up anchor, get moving and head for shore.

Many of us get so engrossed in our fishing that we are not very observing of what's happening about us.

Any storm can be dangerous, but if it's coming from the direction you have to travel it's doubly dangerous. In that event you're not racing with it but against it. And one thing for sure is—you can't outrun a 30-mile wind backed by a heavy rain and still drive the boat safely.

So, start early, be extremely careful on the way back—and tie down securely in your dock or on your trailer.

There's nothing safer than shore when you're in a heavy thunderstorm, unless it's inside a solidly built weatherproof structure.

Above all, don't gather under a tree. It's the most unsafe place to be in a thunderstorm.

PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

SPECIAL ELECTION NOVEMBER 6, 1973

NUMBER ONE ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 8)

Article III, Sections 5, 24 and 49a and Article VIII, Section 6 of the Texas Constitution are amended to:

Provide for regular annual sessions of the Legislature. The regular session in each odd-numbered year would be for a period not to exceed 180 days. The regular session in each even-numbered year would be for a period not to exceed 60 days and would be limited to consideration of fiscal matters and any emergency matters submitted by the Governor. The 60 day session could be extended by the Governor for a period not to exceed 30 days.

Provide an annual salary for members of the Legislature not exceeding $15,000 per year and a per diem not exceeding $18 per day for each day of each regular session or special session.

Provide that no appropriation of money shall be made for a longer term than one year and direct the Comptroller to make annual estimates of anticipated revenue rather than biennial estimates.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide for annual regular sessions of the legislature; and to provide an annual salary of $15,000 and per diem for the members of the legislature, effective in January, 1975."

NUMBER TWO ON THE BALLOT (H.J.R. 7)

Article XVI, Sections 50 and 51 of the Texas Constitution are amended to:

Include within the scope of homestead protection the real property of a single adult person which meets the other requirements of homestead protection, and to provide that a family homestead may not be abandoned except with the consent of both spouses.

Presently a single adult person is not entitled to claim a homestead exemption and a married man can abandon a family homestead without the consent of his wife.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to include within the scope of homestead protection the real property of a single adult person which meets the other requirements of homestead property, and to provide that a family homestead may not be abandoned except with the consent of both spouses."

NUMBER THREE ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 13)

NUMBER FOUR ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 1)

Article XVI, Section 59, of the Texas Constitution is amended by adding a new Subsection (e) which:

Provides that no law creating a conservation and reclamation district shall be passed unless a copy of the proposed law is delivered to the commissioners court of each county and to the governing body of each incorporated city or town in whose jurisdiction said district or any part thereof is or will be located. Each such commissioners court and governing body may file its written consent or opposition to the proposed law with the Governor, Lieutenant Governor and Speaker of the House of Representatives. Each special law creating such a district must comply with general laws then in effect relating to consent by political subdivisions to the creation of such districts.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment establishing certain requirements relative to the enactment of laws creating certain conservation and reclamation districts."

NUMBER FIVE ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 12)

Article XI, Section 7 of the Texas Constitution is amended to:

Provide that all counties and cities bordering on the coast of the Gulf of Mexico are authorized to levy a tax to pay for bonds issued for the construction of sea walls and breakwaters upon a majority vote of the resident property tax-payers. Counties and cities are presently authorized to levy such taxes and this amendment only changes the required vote from a two-thirds majority to a simple majority.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing counties and cities bordering on the Gulf of Mexico to issue bonds for the construction of sea walls and breakwaters upon a vote of the resident property tax-payers."

NUMBER SIX ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 26)

Article V, Section 8 of the Texas Constitution is amended by adding a new paragraph which:

Provides that the district court, concurrently with the county court, shall have the general jurisdiction of a probate court and in a probate proceeding shall also have the jurisdiction otherwise conferred on it by law. It also provides that the legislature may increase, diminish, or eliminate the jurisdiction of the district court or county court in probate matters, may adopt rules governing the filing, distribution, or transfer of cases and proceedings as between the courts having jurisdiction of probate matters, and may provide that all appeals in probate matters shall be to the courts of civil appeals.

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

NUMBER SEVEN ON THE BALLOT (H.J.R. 6)

Article III, Section 49-b of the Texas Constitution is amended to:

Provide for an additional $100 million in bonds or obligations of the State of Texas for the Veterans' Land Fund. This amendment increases the present $400 million authorization to $500 million.

Remove the present provision which permits buying of land only by those veterans who served between September 16, 1940 and the date of formal withdrawal of United States troops from the armed conflict in Viet Nam. This amendment would allow all veterans who served after September 16, 1940 to buy land from the Veterans' Land Fund, provided they are otherwise qualified.

Provide that, in the event of the death of an eligible

Texas veteran after the veteran has filed with the Board an application and contract of sale to purchase through the Board the tract selected by him or her and before the purchase has been completed, then the surviving spouse may complete the transaction.

The wording of the proposed amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide for an additional $100 million in bonds or obligations of the State of Texas for the Veterans' Land Fund."

NUMBER EIGHT ON THE BALLOT (S.J.R. 29)

Article XI, of the Texas Constitution is amended by adding a new Section 5(a) which:

Authorizes and requires incorporated cities, towns, and villages, regardless of population and notwithstanding the constitutional limitations on total tax rates, to levy such annual ad valorem taxes on the taxable property in the city, town or village as are necessary to pay the principal of and interest on, when due, the general obligations hereinafter issued by the city, town, or village. The legislature is empowered to limit by general or special law the total principal amount of general obligations which may be issued, but unless and until the legislature acts to do so, the limitations established by statute with respect to the total principal amount of bonds which may be issued by independent school districts shall apply as the rate limitation on cities, towns, and villages.

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it appears on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to authorize cities, towns, and villages to levy such ad valorem taxes as are sufficient to pay the principal of and interest on their general obligations hereafter issued subject to the restrictions provided by law."
